Transform text into speech and chat with your computer Ampare Speech To Amaar and Martin is a software utility designed to make your machine more life-like, by enabling you to make use of a wide array of specialized tools. The application's main function is delivered through its ability to transform almost every action into speech, as well as narrate the desired text chunks for your convenience. In addition, it also comes with an integrated artificial intelligence algorithm, which enables you to communicate with your computer through simple sentences. Although its capabilities are rather limited, it is able to detect and respond to a decent amount of queries, while also having a minimal overall understanding of the entire conversation. Send emails, record sound and set up alarms Beside the text-to-speech utilities, the application is also packed with a multitude of other tools you can make use of, including a calculator, text editor, shutdown manager and email sender. The latter allows you to easily send out emails directly from the utility and you can choose between the Gmail or AOL providers. Furthermore, you can also encrypt text files and convert them to binary, as well as create speech alarms to alert you about appointments. The shutdown manager can automatically restart or turn off your system at a specified hour and you can force the procedure, in case any application attempts to delay or suspend the shut down process. In conclusion Although you may stumble upon the occasional error message, Ampare Speech To Amaar and Martin is a useful application to have around, thanks to the comprehensive amount of features and tools it delivers. In addition, the user interface is intuitive and easy-to-use, making a good option even for less experienced users. Why people use the word "ignorance"? Ignorance isn't a river or a tree. It's just a word that people like to use. It's a one syllable word that is worthless on its own. The only use you can put it to is to make a generalization. For example, people that use "ignorance" as a weapon of choice when they don't have anything more constructive to say are just ignoramuses. It doesn't mean that anyone who uses it knows what it really means. If you didn't know, you should learn. Ignorance is the elephant in the room that no one talks about anymore. People that use it are the ones that need to be educated. Lol. The only people who do that are those who are ignorant.
