AutoCAD is a general-purpose CAD and drafting software application. In its most basic form, AutoCAD enables users to design and create models and drawings (design drawings) and to edit those designs and drawings. There are AutoCAD versions for Windows, macOS, and Linux. AutoCAD is available in several editions including AutoCAD LT (a lower-cost version), AutoCAD standard (for general-purpose use), and AutoCAD Pro (for professional use). The other editions are priced differently based on the features and types of license. About this article Autodesk AutoCAD is a commercial computer-aided design (CAD) and drafting software application. Developed and marketed by Autodesk, AutoCAD was first released in December 1982 as a desktop app running on microcomputers with internal graphics controllers. Before AutoCAD was introduced, most commercial CAD programs ran on mainframe computers or minicomputers, with each CAD operator (user) working at a separate graphics terminal. AutoCAD is also available as mobile and web apps. Autodesk AutoCAD is a commercial computer-aided design (CAD) and drafting software application. The clock is ticking for the David Beckham-led LA Galaxy to have a new stadium, a new coach, and possibly even a new team. Beckham's tenure in Los Angeles could be approaching its end after two years in America. Beckham was reportedly close to signing a one-year contract extension that would tie him to the Galaxy through 2019. But the new deal appears to have hit some snags: according to a Sports Illustrated report, Beckham's reps attempted to renegotiate the deal to include language that would prevent the deal from expiring if the Los Angeles Times' alienating coverage of the team continues. On Friday, the LA Times announced that its editorial staff would not cover the Galaxy anymore, placing the entire team's future in doubt. "The decision is a direct result of the decisions being made by Major League Soccer in recent months," the paper said. "We are fulfilling our contractual obligations to Major League Soccer and we look forward to covering the Galaxy." The latest development marks the end of a coverage era at the LA Times. The paper spent much of the past year dismissing reports that the Galaxy's owners were considering selling the team to an investor group led by Beckham. The newspaper has also published scathing reports on the Galaxy's owners, arguing that they "have a conflict of interest between their business interests and their soccer club." The editorial board, while disappointed that the Galaxy's new owners would link Beckham with the team's failure, is not entirely condemning of the decision to end the coverage. "The ownership group is not blameless for the Galaxy's failures. But if the team's owners can no longer fulfill the terms of
