The Dio Field Chronicle is a bishoujo game featuring the "famous musical unit" EXILE which is sent forth on a journey with only the power of music to aid them. Being transferred to the city of Vermillion and given the task to clear the Greatbele Tower, THE EVIL ROCK ALCHEMY, the EXILE are forced to battle monsters, overcome obstacles and overcome various trials in their quest for true love. Moreover, a group of people known as the "Ghost of the Dead" appear within the city. They claim that their spirits have been crushed by the powerful technologies found in the city. They request the help of the EXILE to find their buried souls. But are they friends or foes? As the MONSTROUS FIGHTER BRIDE The game introduces us to the mysterious character "The Monstorous Fighter Bride" who is looking for her lost soul. And fighting against the MONSTERS all alone isn't the only task for the EXILE. During their adventure, the MONSTROUS FIGHTER BRIDE will join the EXILE... From the GAME-SIDE EXPLORATION TEAM ■The DioField Chronicle Standard Edition Early Purchase Bonus Content

In UFO Online: Invasion you will have to form part of a military team fighting against a threat of alien invasion. You will have to accomplish many difficult tasks while battling the alien threat. If you manage to survive, you will be able to get a promotion and find your place in the UFO Online story. The game is played through a simple yet very effective point & click interface, with minimal instructions. The game flow is very smooth, even if it takes a bit longer to get used to its controls. Your primary objective is to protect civilians from alien attacks. Instead of rushing you straight to the action, the game opens with a story about aliens threat to earth. As the story progresses, you will have to protect civilians and work your way to the top of the space race. The game's combat is really simple and intuitive. You can choose to fight using a character's current equipment, or you can choose a new weapon from your inventory. Pointing in the right direction (left mouse button) will make you defend civilians and aliens alike. Move around the arena with the cursor keys (you can also control the camera using WASD) and use the mouse to change the camera angle. The auto-aim feature will aim the cursor at the enemy. The mouse wheel will zoom the camera in or out. You will see numbers below the cursor that represents the amount of health that you have for each character. Pressing the number one will launch your character, press number 2 (or Shift+number 2) will reload your weapon. Game Mechanics: 1) Controls: The game has very intuitive controls, although there are some important tips: - If you are a left-handed person, use the Right Mouse button as normal control. - The "automated" character selection (which is activated by pressing shift) will be controlling your character in auto-attack mode - The "automated" camera zoom-in (which is activated by pressing ctrl) will be controlling the camera in auto-zoom mode - The "action" buttons (explained below) will switch from mouse controls to keyboard controls. For example, if you use the keyboard to choose a target with the cursor, you can activate auto-attack mode by clicking the mouse over a target. - Keyboard controls: - use (WASD) to move around - Space to fire - Shift to switch to automated character selection - Ctrl to activate auto-zoom - Reset to switch to mouse controls 2

2 (Encore). Results ===== Group mean control waveforms for the gain-modulated condition were significantly modulated by the GLM contrast on two different scalp regions, at the $p \sim (\text{FDR}) \sim 0.05$ level (i.e., a 13-channel cluster): right medial frontal and right parietal scalp regions (figures 2B,F{ref-type="fig"}). The contrast between the gain-modulated vs. non-modulated conditions was significantly positive in both medial frontal ($t(15) = 2.06$, $p = 0.049$) and parietal ($t(15) = 3.45$, $p = 0.003$) scalp regions. (A) Location of electrodes relative to ICMS stimulation sites for fMRI data. The electrodes' spatial reference coordinates relative to BA44 are provided in table 1{ref-type="table"}. (B) Control scalp waveform ERP responses for gain modulated and non-modulated conditions at electrodes denoted with an asterisk on (A). Green shaded areas denote the window used for the grand-average response depicted in (C), and for the GLM contrast depicted in (F). Green shading denotes 100 ms before to 1000 ms following the stimulus in the non-modulated condition, black shading denotes 1500 ms preceding to 500 ms following the stimulus in the gain-modulated condition, white denotes the stimulus period. The red line denotes the mean grand-average (\pm SD) of all non-modulated and gain-modulated conditions, and the blue line denotes the GLM contrast. During the stimulus period, less negative voltage indicates increased activity in the gain-modulated condition, whereas between 1000--1500 ms, greater negative voltage indicates greater activity in the gain-modulated condition. (C) Contrast maps for the ERP contrast of the gain-modulated vs. non-modulated conditions (GLM contrast) in the medial frontal (RF, $xy = -1.85, 0.55$) and parietal (Pz, $xy = -48.60, -40.85$) scalp regions, displayed on an MNI brain template, masked to the right hemisphere. (D) A blue bar indicates the time period for the contrast displayed in (C)*.

The Fong family immigrated to the Philippines on June 15, 1910. Fong-Dai Zong, a young boy, was born in 1915 and grew up in the fishing town of Tugu, on Bataan Island. Fong-Dai Zong has always dreamt of becoming a judge. This is an extremely difficult position; at the bottom of the sea, few people would know of his services as judge. Fewer still would dare ask him for help. Not daring to go against the will of Yamaraja, Zong thus spends his life trying to find another way to help others. However, when Zong visits Yama, the judge, for the first time, he learns about a mysterious book of the netherworld. "There is only one way to return to the realm of the living..." Zong decides to enter the world of the dead in an attempt to explore this secret book. Zong's adventure takes him all the way to the bottom of the Sanzu River in Bataan. He encounters all sorts of demons and spirits along the way. If he defeats them, he will earn a seat in the empty throne at the hall of the netherworld. If he does not, then he will be forced to suffer here in the limbo of the netherworld for all eternity. Zong is about to discover the secrets of the netherworld...but which gate is it to enter? Decklist Decklist 1 - Hunter A heartless, competitive man. He uses his guns to kill people just for fun. On his way, he stumbles into a glassdoor and gets stuck in a room. Decklist 2 - Friend He seemed friendly on the surface but he hides a shady personality... Decklist 3 - Joker He seems like a happy-go-lucky person, but actually he is sad... Decklist 4 - Thief He does not mind stealing others' things but he does not seem to find stealing anything to be fun... Decklist 5 - Goblin By accident, he stumbled into a hall where the evil spirits are housed. Decklist 6 - God A man who fears nothing. He does not care that he is a god, as long as he can do whatever he wants... Decklist 7 - Hanzo (class 2) They are a pair of twins. He and his twin are good at shooting, so they became Hanzo
