Open the CD-ROM drive to the selected disc. Close the CD-ROM drive if it is currently being used. Also you will be able to select your hot-key button and then press it. Note: This is not a general application. You will need to work and install the plugin in the case of other applications that need the same function. CDhelper Only Requirements: It has been tested on Windows 7 platform. If it works on other operating systems, please say so. Added 2013-10-28 The image below is attached to this description, if you want to read more. A: There is a program called cdrommgr.exe, that can do that. You can download it from here: Wildlife trafficking controls Second, outlawing wildlife trade would be good, but it would not be sufficient. First, it's still legal for people to import wildlife as food, and such imports would not be affected. Second, there is still an enormous black market for exotic wildlife products and a lot of trafficking. As someone who has worked in the market of wildlife parts and products, I can tell you that it is a massive problem and it can't be even legally solved. I understand that sportsmen who are interested in hunting animals, for example, should be able to buy guns from legal dealers, but they should not be allowed to order a whole animal, such as a rhinoceros horn, and have it shipped to their home from a wildlife dealer. That is trafficking. Wildlife trafficking still takes place. Those who are interested in the practice of wildlife trafficking should read the book If a Lion Could Talk, which tells the story of the work of the International Anti-Poaching Foundation and its founder and president, Dr. Richard Leakey, in Rwanda. While some estimates are that as many as 1 million rhinos have been killed in the past decade, the actual amount of poaching occurring is still unclear because it is very difficult to count rhinos and other wildlife that have been killed. But estimates indicate that there are fewer than 100,000 rhinos left in the world — and according to the book by Dr. Leakey, nearly half of them live in Zaire and northern Rwanda. Under the leadership of these scientists and conservationists, wildlife traffickers took matters into Selecting an option is as easy as you would expect. Example: The Islamic State is spreading its web of propaganda to get Muslims to commit acts of terror. The newest trend: They're inviting you to stand in front of an exploding plane. "Sisters, make a video and upload it on your social media," the terror group tells potential terrorists. "Say: 'I'm a supporter of the caliphate and I've made a pledge to become a katib (attacker).'" That means a "suicide bomber" who blows up troops, officials or civilians, including women and children. Related: 10 ways to protect yourself from ISIS. An ISIS online training manual reveals their thought process as they are recruiting terrorists online. They want terrorists to gather sensitive information and infiltrate enemy countries. They also want terrorists to disguise themselves on the ground so they can get more intelligence on ISIS, as well as other targets. The group pushes for martyrdom operations. “Try to become a katib (suicide bomber). Then you’ll be easily recognized in the videos posted by people who have attained the status of the Islamic State.” “There’s nothing more heartwarming than hearing about the death of [your] ungrateful brother on the battlefield.” ISIS leaders order the propaganda network to set up fake websites
