I created a script to generate consolidated calendar listings for 10,000 PCs. This will be used to generate a top 10 list of any Windows system. We have found this to be the best method to do this, as this way you get a master list with all the affected computers (cannot be done in Task Schedule). The script runs in the Task Scheduler and updates itself hourly. This means you get an accurate list for the last 10,000 computers. If you run into any issues please let me know. Create your own Rijksmuseum tour with the help of this great app. Simply add historic sights to your itinerary, enter details about each attraction and you're set to go! Features: - Add sights automatically, or manually. - You can change the order of the sights. - When you reach a sight, you can continue to a different one, or return to the first one. - Each sight offers a summary of what's there. - Easily create local, walking, and round-trip tours. - Search for sights on a map. - Automatically check-in and check-out of sights. - One-touch booking of sights through BookMyTrip. - Supports Android-compatible GPS receivers. This app is specially designed for people who wish to prepare their vacation on their own. It gathers various useful information that can be used to plan out an itinerary for a trip. The complete listing of the attractions around my house, along with more detailed information about them, is currently being updated and is ready to be used. The app contains descriptions of each attraction and the calendar where it is located. For each attraction, you can enter the name, the date and time of your visit, additional data if you like (i.e. contact number, website, etc.) and a summary of the attraction. If the attraction has a bookable system, the app will allow you to select the date and time when you want to visit. The information obtained from BookMyTrip will be used to generate a single-day itinerary for your trip. You can also add your own attractions, and the itinerary will be automatically updated based on the data that you enter in the app. The app will allow you to visit all the attractions of a certain region. You can also choose to limit the list of attractions that you see by region. To plan your trip, you can also add
