This class is an introduction to the most cutting-edge skills in motion graphics, interactivity and virtual worlds. In this class students will learn to get the most out of their interactions with the students attending the class. Learn how to bring the studio experience into your home, for personal improvement or fun. In a world where everything is digitized, the reason we pursue the arts is to escape this very truth that everything is digitized. We pursue the arts to experience the feel and the truth of the art being created, in order to feel the physical world as it is meant to be experienced. Our visual culture is at a crossroads. We can chose to keep using a lens which is designed to connect us to that truth, or we can discard it and join the world of digital technology. In this course, we are going to go on a journey to help you get back to that truth through an eye opening exploration of the visual culture we have created. We will start with the basics, where we will explore the fundamentals of design and composition as it applies to both still and moving images. What are the fundamentals of design and what makes something "good design"? We will learn how to apply these principles to your work, and we will go further, to explore what design has become, as a medium for expressing your ideas. We will learn from a series of iconic pieces, and we will apply these principles to create our own personal pieces of expression. We will then explore from the other side of this lens. We will learn what the power of words can be, in both written and spoken forms. We will look at the power of metaphor. We will learn what music and poetry have to offer. We will then combine all of this together, in order to have a dialogue and creation, just for ourselves, in this most personal and powerful medium of all: art. If you are interested in learning some of the latest, coolest, most modern techniques, this is the course for you! I want to share with you something that I have come to love and have experienced first hand: that art is... art is all about having fun! This class is going to be a fun adventure for you. You are going to learn how to play with different mediums and see that some of them can be fun.
