"The relationship between Alberta and the West Coast of British Columbia is too close to be ignored in oil markets," said a study by Canada and B.C.-based Ivanhoe Cambridge, released ahead of a meeting of premiers in Saskatchewan. "BC is Canada's only export market to the U.S. and its largest trading partner with China." On the down side, Alberta's hot and often cold attitude toward Ottawa has caused B.C. to push back, this time over policies that restrict oilsands producers from exporting their products overseas, while the federal government puts pressure on pipelines such as the Trans Mountain expansion. And the easy access to routes for other ocean-going shipping has allowed Canada to ship more oil to the U.S. and Asia than they export to Europe and Asia from Alberta. A key component of the study was to look at the price of Canadian oil, which is traded in the global market under the symbol WTI (for West Texas Intermediate), after looking at the price of oil in the global market. "Regional market factors outside the Canadian government control, such as the growing U.S. shale boom and the potential for exports to Asia, must be considered when calculating the future price of Canadian oil," said
