In-game currency: Content Update Space is kind of nice these days. Space is kind of nice these days. Posted - 2011.09.06 17:54:32 - Quote A nice system in the game just keeps on giving. The destruction on the realspace side makes me sad. The change of the tech tree from the skill point to the resource point on the tech tree is something I really hope the developers will realize. It makes more sense to me. FOCUS ON THE REAL SPACE NOW I am most curious about the upcoming Devlog. I really hope that future Devlogs will be a little bit more exciting. The PvP system already is rather good. Nice maps, nice players, good system. It's all what it should be. On the PvP side there was a server restart that killed the old client. I am also now having problems with the RSI chat and EVE panel. I have two clients running at the moment. I am waiting for the other client to connect back to R

Q: Python - How to convert decimal to binary, printing the binary as text? I want to convert a decimal number to binary, and print it (the binary as text). For example, the number 85 in decimal is 01000001 in binary, so the string would be 100000100. Also, the number 0 is equivalent to the space character, so I also want to strip all zeros to make the code shorter. Is this possible? Any other optimizations, such as checks to see if the input is too big, or can be converted to a binary array directly are welcome. I came up with the following code: if arg[0] == '#': x = int(arg[1,2]) print bin(x)[2:] Is this good? A: You can use the bin.to_bytes method to convert an int to a binary string. Note that the bytes representation is written in a big-endian order: >>> bin(85) '0b1110001' >>> bin(0) '0b' >>> bin.to_bytes(85, byteorder="big") b'1110001' >>> bin.to_bytes(0, byteorder="big") b'0' ACCESS DENIED">Access Denied Also, you can create a custom dialog using AlertDialog.Builder AlertDialog.Builder builder = new AlertDialog.Builder(this); builder.setMessage("This is a custom dialog!") .setCancelable(false) .setPositiveButton("OK", new DialogInterface.OnClickListener() { public void onClick(DialogInterface dialog, int id) { } }); AlertDialog alert = builder.create(); alert.show(); /* * Copyright 2019 Amazon.com, Inc. or its affiliates.
