Tags GORY BASTARD. The present invention relates to a method for the preparation of a polytetrafluoroethylene granular material. More specifically, the present invention relates to a method for preparing a polytetrafluoroethylene powder, which is suitable as an additive for polyethylene or polypropylene, having a bulk specific gravity of not greater than 1.5. In recent years, plastics have been widely used in the fields of electrical and electronic devices, medical devices and industrial devices because of their superior mechanical and physical properties and flame resistance. Particularly, polyethylene and polypropylene are in wide use for molded articles. Of these two, polyethylene is superior in heat resistance, chemical resistance, electrical properties, and mechanical properties. On the other hand, polypropylene has superior physical properties, such as chemical resistance, heat resistance and mechanical properties. In applications where polyethylene or polypropylene are used in combination with materials which are likely to be brought into contact with organic liquids and solvents, for example, as the internal layer of a capacitor, the body or the insulation of a lead wire and the outer layer of a battery, polyethylene and polypropylene exhibit problems such that when they are contacted with organic liquids or solvents, they are stained. Thus, additives are indispensable for preventing such staining. It is necessary that the additive for a polyethylene or polypropylene have a specific gravity which is greater than 1.
