I'm a big believer in using apps, so I tried one called Samsung S-Tools. It can be used to repair S4 & Note 3 flash, use in recovery when forced to format, resync everything, clean memory, access bootloader. It's from Samsung and it works well with S4, S5, S6, Note 3, Note 4, Note 5. Features: - Cool down and repair Samsung recovery apps. - Clean memory. - Clean all hardware data. - Repair Flash. - Resync all data and app. - File recovery of SD card, use system and user files. - Full version is $2.50 and it's ad-free, so it's a good free app for folks who can't afford to spend for it. Nah, not really. I just think the author didn't explain it very well, and also the last thing we need is too many apps. Click to expand... For sure, that's a good review. Q: How to close db connection inside createQuery function I have one DAO layer where I have a method like this: public static T findAll(Class type, Object primaryKeyValue, Object foreignKeyValue) { return em.createQuery("SELECT t FROM "+ type.getName() + " t WHERE t.id=:id", type) .setParameter("id", primaryKeyValue) .setParameter("foreignKeyValue", foreignKeyValue) .getSingleResult(); } I get the data from DB, and I don't want to close the connection in createQuery, as it would cause database to block. But I can't move the close outside the method. How can I close the connection in the createQuery method?

A: If you are using Spring, you could try using Spring's @Transactional annotation. For those of you who are interested in hearing how we make our sour cream, in our case, the cream is made with a special kind of yogurt that uses the Kefir process to produce a sour cream with a distinct tangy and acid flavor. We use this sour cream in all of our milk dishes to add

What's New in the Kingston SSD Manager?

The Satechi C47 12W, Satechi C47 15W, Satechi C47 20W are high quality heaters with multi-language LCDs. Great for emergency situations, they are just what you need. They have sturdy aluminum frames and heat up rapidly in any indoor environment. Made in China. We've been working with the owners of the C47 for more than a year to get an OTA version of the software to install on iOS devices, and while we waited, users were in luck that we were able to ship a Mac version, free of charge, to the owners of the C47's. So we decided to give it a try, and provide the Mac version to our customer base. We've had a ton of updates since then, and the Mac version now works seamlessly with the latest C47 firmware update. Here's what's new: Firmware Version 1.1 for Mac - We now support the latest firmware, v1.1! Flash Store icon update - We now use the new icon from the firmware version 2.0 release Non-Apple MFi controllers - These controllers are the BiosLink/Sony controller and the WinDock controller. We've had them working with the C47 firmware for some time, and this update provides the Mac version with that support Recovery SSD installation - This allows you to install the firmware version without a recovery SSD, allowing you to use the Mac version with the install media on a PC. Added USB Fix - We added a usb fix so that you won't lose power when the usb cable is removed Fixed invalid block count - This is a known issue, and there is a fix for it in the Mac version. This is an update to the Mac version of the C47 firmware. All you need to do is update the firmware, and that's it. You don't have to do any other additional steps. It's a fairly easy update, and if you've got the latest firmware installed already, then you can continue using that, and it will update the firmware for you automatically. Requirements: OS X 10.7 or later bundle file for version 1.1 only These instructions do not apply to firmware version 1.0 Download: Satechi C47 Firmware v1.1 for Mac (version 1.0 is no longer available) Satechi C47 Firmware v1.1 for Mac is available in the following download links: 1) from the Software Store 2) from the page "Software Downloads" (on the left hand side) After installing the software, you can access the Firmware v1.1 for Mac via: 1) "Firmware Updates" 2) "Firmware for XXXXXXXXXX" (where XXXXXXXXXX is the firmware version) Mac firmware downloads are available only for Mac OS X 10
