My Little List is a feature-rich application that allows you to create a modern list, with all the features and tools you need to help you organize, plan and manage your upcoming tasks or appointments. Google Chrome has an excellent offline storage, but it is only available in the latest version of the browser. This article covers how to save web pages in the offline mode, using Google Chrome browser. Saving web pages in the offline mode Google Chrome uses its cache feature for saving web pages. But, a cache file cannot be created for each page you visit. Hence, Google Chrome only saves the most recent versions of the web pages, and saves them in a folder named "Page Data". The offline cache file has the extension.pak. If you want to view the web pages in the offline mode, you have to download the associated.pak file, which has the same file name as the web page. To download the file, simply follow these steps: 1. Right click on a web page that you want to save. 2. Click on "save as". 3. Select the destination folder, where you want to save the file. 4. Select the file name that you want to use. 5. Click on the download button. Your web page should now be available in the offline mode. To view any of the web pages you saved, just start the Google Chrome browser. But, you have to change the default location for web pages in the offline mode. To do that, open the Google Chrome settings by clicking on the menu icon at the top right of the browser window. Click on the menu icon, and then choose "Settings". In the "Settings" screen, click on the "Show advanced settings" link. Scroll down and you will find an option named "Save pages". Select the check box to the left of "Use the offline Web Cache" and click the "Ok" button. Now, you can view the web pages you saved in the offline mode. I hope you like the article.
