As the largest fantasy action RPG that has ever been born in Japan, the Elden Ring Game, created by Inti Creates, is a sandbox fantasy RPG that emphasizes both a vast world and massive gameplay. Open for business in the new Lands Between, an area where time and space are distorted, the story begins when the hero has the opportunity to be reborn as an ancient lineage of an Elden Lord in hopes of solving a riddle to save a friend. -- When a person's life becomes unfathomable, a destination of death begins.It is the start of the story of a young student named Gunzō. On a summer morning in August, Gunzō died. Living in a small seaside town called Matsuzaka in Japan, Gunzō had dropped his own life and became part of Hachijo. At the end of the day, Gunzō's thoughts stopped in a world where anything is possible and everything is connected. It is an uncharted world floating in an unknown time. "UNDER LOST" is a CG anime drama inspired by a real-life classical novel. Gunzō was a young student who chose his own destiny in life. Guided by the power of love and friendship, he, who had lost hope in life, strived to live his life to the fullest while passing the days as a student at Hachijo high school. The story is about people who decide to commit suicide on the same day and what a body decides when a life is lost. Though the story is about Gunzō, it is not a story about a person who died. It is a story about our potential to live as human beings. "UNDER LOST" is a story about the fate of a life and the will to survive. "UNDER LOST" is an original work by Yojiro Takita. It tells a story where life and death become a single picture. -- -- An unexpected accident had torn apart Yuzuriha and the entire country. Our high school lives had been turned upside down and our lives had been uprooted. After days had gone by, we had all somehow stepped out of the shock of the accident okay so I know i suck at artist but i have a question I'm working on a story to where someone kills the Star=king but what should I have as someone's room and character theme? I'm having a hard time finding which type of theme i should use. I have some help from my parents but they want to hear more opinions before they make a final conclusion. I always thought we should have ceria's room so that would be like her theme but I dont know which one to chose so that would be the best I'm usually good with theme for my characters I just can't think of which one to use for my room, and I have to be really accurate but I know if I make it wrong I'll get bad reactions... So my questions are: Which room do you think I should use? If you help, what type of theme do you think I should use? I'm actually quite happy with it. I have, in the past, had a lot of trouble coming up with something decent for my character's rooms. I think I just have to wait for the characters' characters to hit the headcanon stage before they'll be good enough. I think that makes sense and I can do that I think I should have some that include decently done art with a more aesthetically pleasing room and design more because I only have a limited amount of money and I'll have more free time. But i think it would be a while before i can actually start on it.Anticipatory processing of non-polar facial cues: a signal detection approach. The present study addressed whether static cues to emotional facial expressions are processed as signals, which can be used for anticipation purposes, or merely as signals for prediction purposes. To test this question, subjects were asked to detect a happy face, presented in a neutral face context or in a neutral context in which the eyes were closed or the nose was blocked. The results indicated that the detection of a happy face in a normal context is more difficult when the eyes are closed and nose blocked than when the eyes are open and the nose is not blocked. This is evidence for the role of face- and facial emotional processing as signals with an immediate signal transmission. The findings also showed that the nose block failed to disrupt detection of a happy face while the eyes were open. These results are interpreted as evidence for the role of facial non-polar information as a signal with an intermediate probability of transmission between brain

----- - LibreOffice 1.4.3 is now downloadable as of this writing (5/4/2005); LibreOffice 1.4.2 is now released. If you are feeling adventurous, look in the LinuxMCE-db, and download both the 1.4.2 and the 1.4.3 versions, and do a seperate update for these, as is currently listed. Pre-built. - Still waiting for 1.5.1. Vendors are 1st/2nd time versions, so...1.5.1 is perhaps not available. - v1.5.1 was 1:19 ISO image, 750mb. Downloadable. - Floppy install is possible with 1.5.1. The ISO uses a modal menu, and if a mouse is used, is a bit clunky. And you should be able to get the graphical installer from the webpage. - Just got report of someone running 1.5.1 on a CD-R because it was the only one he had. - Update: 1.5.1 is built.... and ours, oddly enough. To use 1.5.1: - NOTE: the CD-R has not been checked for pirating. It is a cross-compiled 1.5.1, but probably multiboot too. Ours didn't. - after this install, nothing is left but the floppy to open the installer for us. If you are a web user, you can download the installer pages here, and go to the bottom for 1.5.1 - Start w/ the instructions (w/ 1.0.1), as 1.5.1 really is far easier. - All is present. Remote troubleshooting.
