SMPlayer - SMPlayer - Official Website Amaq Agency claims its employees were shot dead in Younis Khattab air base. The terrorists opened fire on the employees as they were sitting at their desks, a security official told AFP. "Some of the militants who stormed the air base, opened fire at the employees at their desks, after which the Army retaliated and the militants fled," the official said, requesting anonymity. The militants began their raid on the base in the north of Dera Ghazi Khan at around 7am (11:20pm GMT Friday), said security officials. Three militants, including the leader of the group that staged the attack, were killed in the assault, they said. A number of employees were also injured when the militants opened fire on them, a security official said. The attackers were wearing military uniforms, he added. One of the militants was also killed in a firefight with security forces and another was captured alive, the officials added. The militants claimed responsibility for the attack on Amaq, which said three of its security guards were killed in the assault on the airbase. "The Islamic Emirate carried out an operation to carry out a martyrdom operation against the warmongers of Amaq (Amaq Agency)," said the statement. The militants had occupied the base in the city of Chak 112 in the city of Dera Ghazi Khan in Punjab province. The officials said that around 15 militants were also injured in the firefight, while a security 09e8f5149f
