The following image was created entirely in Adobe Photoshop Elements. 1. Create a New Document 1. Click on Image on the left side of the screen and choose New. The New Image dialog box will appear. 2. Click the New button at the bottom of the dialog box. 3. Here you can see all available sizes of the image. Make sure the size you want to use is selected. 4. The location from where the image will be saved is also selected. 5. The options: Want to Save As a New Document? and Open as a New Photoshop Document are checked by default. 6. Click OK to save the image into the folder where you have saved the document. 7. To rename the document, double click on the title and change the text. 8. Click OK to accept the document. 2. Create an Image 1. Select File > Open, or click the green + symbol. 2. Select the image from the selected folder that you want to use. If you are using another folder, change the folder path by clicking the arrow next to the folder path. The file size that you will use is also selected. 3. Click Open to accept the image. 4. In the New Image dialog box, click the circle arrow to the left of the size and change the size into the one that you want. 5. The crop options are also selected by default. 6. Click OK to accept the image. 3. Adjust the Color You can adjust the saturation, brightness and contrast of the image. The options for each option are highlighted. 1. Select the Adjustments tab on the left. 2. Click the eyedropper icon. 3. Change the color of any part of the image by clicking and dragging over the area that you want to color. 4. You can adjust the brightness and contrast of the image by clicking the eyedropper button. Hold the Alt key and click on the image in order to change the brightness of the whole image. Clicking on the image with the Alt key will change the brightness of the top half of the image, if the preview is vertical or the bottom half of the image, if the preview is horizontal. You can also click on the eyedropper button to adjust the contrast of the image. If you hold the Ctrl key 05a79ccff

Q: How can I get the DOM results into a string I'm pretty new at front-end development, and I'm having an issue where my code returns successfully and updates the DOM, but my function is then done and I'm left with a big string on the page. For example, I am using d3.js to create a simple bar chart. I would like to get my results out into a string, and send that to my php script. Then I'm going to parse out data based on the title (a couple days ago I was only trying to get the number) and do some simple math to chart this: Number of Days body { font: 12px Arial; } #chart { position: absolute; width: 700px; margin: 0 auto; height: 150px; } var duration = 3; var data = []; for (i = 0; i

Michael Corleone (The Godfather) Michael Corleone was the fictional father of actor Al Pacino's character in The Godfather. Biography Michael was the father of a nephew, Pussy - the future Gotti - after his son Victor had died in a car accident. Although Victor is now dead, Michael is still the owner of the Corleone family's legitimate business. In the sequel, The Godfather Part II, Michael died in the 1980s, leaving his son Bonasera to carry on his family's empire. Michael was a former boxer in the 1940s. In The Godfather, he owned a restaurant, Santo's, while Tony and Carlo ran his legitimate businesses in the Corleone family. Through his wife, Linda, Michael was a third cousin of the character of Carlo Vaccarelli, played by Federico Cali, in The Godfather. Michael Corleone is played by Jack Nicholson in The Godfather and The Godfather Part II. He also appears in The Godfather Part III, The Godfather Returns, and The Godfather's Revenge. Michael Corleone In The Godfather, Michael Corleone was introduced into the story as the head of the family. He was portrayed as the patriarch of the Corleone family, as he was the owner of the legitimate businesses run by Tony and Carlo. He was shown to be concerned about his family's ongoing success and the well-being of his family members. His concerns about making sure that his family's future remains secure led him to invest very heavily in the family business. Throughout the film, Michael's importance within the Corleone family is seen as he commands respect from his associates and his sons, while also staying out of the way of them until it is deemed necessary for him to intervene. He has two sons, Sonny and Vincent, with Linda. He is the father of Pussy, although he considers his nephew Victor to be his son. He is also the father of Bonasera, a young boy who joins the family business. In the end, Michael could not interfere in the illegal activities of the Corleone family, as he was killed by rival families to protect his family and the Corleone name. After Michael's death, his friend, Carlo, and his son, Fredo, become the new head of the family. As Fredo took over the family business in the beginning of
