This CMS contains images that are only used if the user doesn't have the specific image. It's working on my server but when I uploaded it to the client's server the images are requested twice (when the page loads, and when a specific link is used). I have the suspicion that it's caused because of cookies (I checked the debugging information and noticed that when I click on a specific link, the cookie value changed). I really don't know if that's true, and I'm looking for the best way to avoid it. I tried to look into HTTP Headers, but I can't find any specific information about the problem. Thank you in advance. A: Most likely it's caused by a 302-moved response. Find out the URL that's sending that response and it's a good start. The browser doesn't see a direct URL for the image, it sees a URL to a page which would have included the image, or a URL with a 302 response code in it. Q: How do I populate the list returned by PPMI() in a loop? I am trying to do some analysis using the Person Predictor Method (PPMI) by using the R package c9d1549cdd
