In the summer of "Raintree" the green fields were sewn with flowers. A "Hostess" who has always lived at Imitation Lake who has not yet married yet, and who always carries in her hands a delicate flower from a "Raintree" got together with the Karakuri Squire "Karakuri Shun", who is a delightful and lively young man, and the two of them were living happily together. But one day, the Karakuri Squire set out on an expedition to find a way to a foreign country, and as he got lost, he found himself at "Raintree" and was chased by the "Ushi-shinjis", a pair of girls. They said that they were the "Hostesses" who had the "Raintree" and persuaded Shun to go with them. But Shun was unwilling to part with Aya so he put up a fight. As he struggled with the Ushi-shinjis, the flower Aya was carrying fell into the lake. But even though he lost the flower that he loved, he could not give up even a single person. Shun was convinced to go to the "Raintree" with the Ushi-shinjis. One day, when it came time to eat, the Hostess in the lake saw the flower Shun was carrying and said that she felt sorry for it so she thought that maybe he wouldn't eat it if she brought it out with her. As such, when the time came to eat, Shun picked up the flower on the Hostess's lap and was about to eat it, but Aya told him, "Shun, leave it be" and said "I was lonely so I was about to hold a contest among all the "Hostesses" at the "Raintree". That night, the "Hostesses" came to where Shun was and they had a contest. At the end of the contest, the "Hostess" who won the prize was Aya. That night, in her room, Aya tells Shun that she would like to meet him. Then, she tells him to bring the flower that she picked up to the "Raintree" at the next day. However, Shun said that he would not hand over Aya's flower and instead said that he would be going away. The next day, when it was time to eat, Aya told Sh

They were all smiling and beautiful but I could see their weather outdoors in their winter clothes. These 5 women were one of a group of 11 volunteers and I had just met them. They are the Red Cross Society of Calgary volunteers helping the local community in the aftermath of the flood. The volunteers were answering the phones and helping people to meet in teams to help out at a temporary shelter at one of the local schools. We all had a lot of fun and it was certainly a good feeling knowing that we're all helping our own Calgary community. I wished I could have gotten a picture of them answering the phone together but I couldn't. So I looked through their facebook pages and found one of their volunteer helpers. It was my pleasure to visit the world of these amazing women and their very unselfish acts. A big thank you to these ladies who showed me the good heart and soul Calgary has, despite the tragic flood.Q: python: seems like urllib2.Request instance has no attribute 'get' On ubuntu 12.04 I am using the below code to access a file in a URL which I have redirected. import urllib2 req = urllib2.Request("") req.get() However when I execute the above code I get the following error:
