We observe that for  $\$p = p_{(c)}$  there is an abrupt change at  $n_{(c)}$  at which the number of species changes from the smooth decay of  $N(n)$  at  $\$pp_{(c)}$  which is not present for  $\$p = 0.1$  and is very well fitted by the exponential decay  $N(n) \sim \exp(-\gamma n)$ . This is another indication for the percolation transition at  $\$p_{(c)}$ . Let us mention that in the case of higher dimensional percolation ( $d > 2$ ), for the existence of such a transition there are also results  $\{ @penrose \}$ . However, the above arguments still hold for the critical percolation transition in  $2d$  although the critical exponents are different  $\{ @biskup; @penrose \}$ .
