Wxpos is a Point of Sale application that can be used as a basis for building a new POS system. Wxpos uses Wxways support software to provide support for a wide range of barcode readers and barcode scanners. This article explains how to configure Wxpos to use SQLite3. 1. Downloading and installing SQLite3 Installing SQLite3 takes about 5 minutes. Windows users, a good software to install SQLite3 is DevC++. Mac OS X users, you can get an Xcode Universal binary build of SQLite3 from here. 2. Configuring Wxpos for SQLite Before you start to configure Wxpos, you need to check and install the SQLite3 support software. Click on Edit, go to Options (see the button above) to open the Options window. Make sure the SQLite software is installed and check the check box for SQLite support (see the screenshot above). Click OK to close the Options window. Now turn to Main Window, go to the Network tab. Click Wxpos.xml to open the configuration file of Wxpos. Open the checkbox for Allow SQLite3 connections to Wxpos (see the screenshot above). Click OK to close the Network tab. Close Wxpos and start it again. Click the Options button to open the Options window. Click Main Window, Change the database to SQLite3. Click OK to close the Options window. Click the SAVE button to save the database file to disk. You can configure other database drivers after you start Wxpos. 3. Configuring Wxpos for SQLite3 Now start Wxpos, and on the Main Window tab (see the button above), click on Tables to open the tables list. Click on the plus (+) button in the top-left corner of the screen, select SQLite Database to open the Create Database dialog (see the screenshot above). In the File Name field, enter the database name sqlite3 (without the quotation marks). In the Database engine field, select SQLite3 (without the quotation marks). Click on OK to create the database. Now return to the Main Window tab, click on Tables to open the tables list. Click

For example, if my original numpy array is 50 000 x 3, I would like to be able to use some masking to generate another array that is smaller array (let's say 10 000 x 3) to which the old array will then be drawn to. I was thinking of using np.random.choice with different parameters like np.random.choice(size=10,p=1.0,replace=False) but to get the values back in the new array I'm a bit lost. I tried to use something like this: new_rand_array = np.random.choice(size=10,p=1,replace=False) new_09e8f5149f
