The Content Aware magic is the result of the intelligent integration of both machine learning and actual content. It's fully automatic and not user-friendly. For example, it doesn't catch any mistakes and can't be rolled back. You have to do a lot of fine-tuning manually as you retrain it to spot patterns specific to your image automatically. Just as with Color Replacement, the algorithm works with the same type of shape and pattern recognition technology. With a new content aware technology, the tool follows the edges of the objects and surfaces, and replaces its effects on entire objects, even if it is merged with other objects. How To Use It: You can understand how these tools work in the layers and how to use them, by studying the workflow of the selections dialog to the right. When you use a selection tool, you'll notice that it replaces the selected area with a new color layer. You'll be prompted to cut, copy or paste your new layer, but we'll be concentrating on using it as a standalone. You can save the new layer and continue editing it, use it as a mask, or you can even cut it off and create a new negative. The possibilities are limitless when you use your selection tools, and they also help create some fantastic collages, vectors, and other new effects in your images. To easily sharpen your images, start by using the Unsharp Mask filter. You'll use this filter for creating a soft or hard-focus effect. You'll see that you can create a blurry looking filter with the Smudge tool, and you can reconstruct the image, as well as get a few more effects. 933d7f57e6
