Photoshop is constantly changing; add-ons are constantly being added and subtracted and a plethora of programs are continually being developed as new features are added. Looking at Photoshop's features A quick overview of the features in Photoshop can help you understand what kinds of creations you can make with this program and your options for creating images. Photoshop does things differently from other programs, and even from other graphics editing programs. It offers most of the features required for professional image manipulation. The following list includes some of these features:

Adjustment layers: This feature allows you to edit an image using different adjustments, such as Levels, Curves, and Histogram. You can create new adjustment layers by clicking the New Adjustment Layer icon at the bottom of the Layers palette.

Color Correction: The Color Correction feature corrects various colors in an image, including Skin tone, Hue, and saturation.

Comparing tools: This feature enables you to compare any two images by tracking their differences pixel by pixel. Clone Stamp: Photoshop's Clone Stamp tool, which is available in the Toolbox, enables you to replace existing objects in an image with duplicate images or objects in another image. In addition, the Clone Stamp tool provides a previously stored sample of the source object to use when duplicating it. (See Chapter 10 for more on this tool.) Content

---

Aware Scaling: This feature enables you to resize an image without distorting the content of the image. Instead, the scaling changes the image's background to match the background of an existing image in the image.

Eraser tool: The Eraser tool can be used to crop or remove objects from an image. It also corrects the color of backgrounds and objects within the area that is selected. Extract, Embed, and Replace Layers:

This feature lets you make and make changes to edits in multiple layers of an image.

Selection Brush: The Selection Brush lets you paint an image, selecting areas to reproduce in a new layer. Expose: This feature allows you to change the exposure, or lightness, of an image. You can also use the Level tool to adjust exposure.

Filter: The Filter feature enables you to create special effects in images, including blurring, glows, and stars. You can also apply filters to multiple images.

History brush: The History brush stores a history of the last 50 or so selections made on an image and allows you to recreate those selections in the Sabinene synthase Sabinene synthase (, Geosmertzia brevipes (Hook.) Kuzm. & Smiley) is an enzyme with systematic name geraniol:2-oxoglutarate dioxygenase (synthase, sabinene forming). This enzyme catalyses the following chemical reaction

The product geraniol is a

In the Shadow of Night In the Shadow of Night is a 2012 studio album by American singer-songwriter Joshua Radin. The album was released on October 16, 2012, and is Radin's second album. The album debuted at No. 3 on the Billboard 200, selling 38,000 copies in its first week. In the Shadow of Night has also been certified gold by the RIAA. As of December 2013, the album has sold 43,000 copies in the United States. Background According to the band's website, Radin had made a demo version of the song "Just One of Those Things" by the time he was 22 years old. "The song was stuck in my head and the lyrics were so detailed that it made me wonder if the melody existed somewhere and I was just imagining it," Radin said. "In this attempt, I decided to simply capture the melody that was in my head without all the wacky lyrics." As Radin was recording with the jazz ensemble Palmetto Chorale, he decided to change the title to "Just One of Those Things". Although he did not find a publisher for the song, he recorded it at Steve Albini's Electrical Audio studios. The song was picked up by RCA Records and put out as the first single from the album. The song was played on KCRW's Morning Becomes Eclectic, then picked up by Q104.3's "Best of the Week". Lyrical themes The album's lyrical themes are "the feeling of not knowing what you're going to do, but you're sure that something is going to happen"; "the desire to change things for the

---

---

In Oklahoma, at least, teachers are ready to take matters into their own hands. The teachers' union in Oklahoma, OK Education Association, is threatening a strike in the state if a budget deal to fund education is not passed by Monday. On Friday, Oklahoma's Legislature approved a bill to cut $1 billion from the $10 billion public education budget over the next two years and raise sales tax rates. "If the Legislature does not approve all of the funds identified in this budget, we will consider our last resort of a strike," said David Colville, the president of the union, in a statement. The looming strike would affect the state's roughly 145,000 public school teachers and their 105,000 students. The union, which represents Oklahoma educators, has already sent out warnings to its school employees in the state to check whether their schools are funded. "The statement indicates it is not a hypothetical issue," said John Wigginton, a spokesman for the state's education department. "But we don't know yet whether the districts are funded." The vote was delayed a day after Republicans in the state senate blocked efforts to reach a budget deal. The vote was the latest headache for Republican Gov. Mary Fallin, who signed the deal on Thursday. As a result, the lawmakers have been granted an extra week to complete the work on a bill that limits the number of public school teachers as well as the number of new charter schools allowed to open. The state's public education spending has become a divisive topic among Republicans and Democrats in the state. "We can't go on holding teachers hostage," said Democratic state Sen. John

---

Sparks. Israel's Supreme Court upheld in a split decision yesterday the law that allows men suspected of rape to be held for up to 48 hours without trial, despite widespread international outrage. The justices said that parliament had acted within the law and that all the delays for the complainant's testimony had been proportionate. Two of the judges said the law was "flawed" and that the legislative record reflected a lack of parliamentary debate, while four others supported the law. The ruling comes at a time of profound public unease over the way Israeli security services deal with the country's Arab and ultra-Orthodox communities.

The supporters of the legislation, which gives the attorney-general the right to extend the detention period, argued that the law deals specifically with rape. The bill
