You can also see the files here: The present disclosure relates generally to lighting devices. More particularly, the present disclosure relates to lamps used for backlighting flat panel displays. Even more particularly, the present disclosure relates to lamps in which semiconductor devices are encapsulated in glass bodies in a manner that is substantially hermetic. Liquid crystal displays have many advantages, including low power consumption, high brightness and color, wide viewing angle, and low cost. The high brightness of liquid crystal displays allows them to be used in a variety of applications, including digital clocks, meters and graphical interfaces. These applications typically require the liquid crystal display to be backlit. Backlighting is most commonly achieved using cold cathode fluorescent light bulbs (CCFLs). However, CCFLs are inefficient and generate a large amount of heat. Additionally, CCFLs are limited in that they do not provide a broad range of colors, and have a limited lifetime. Flat panel displays using light-emitting diodes (LEDs) are also known. Flat panel displays using LEDs have better resolution, lower power consumption, longer lifetimes, a broader color range, and are more compact than their CCFL counterparts. Thus, LEDs are an attractive alternative to CCFLs for flat panel displays. As in previous years, in FY2018 the Governor's Budget recommends providing fewer resources to Tennessee's 57 counties than TNReady, the state's K-12 pre-kindergarten program, in order to balance the budget. This year's Budget also provides $5 million in cuts to federal Medicaid and Foster Care. $1 million of that will impact the state's extensive system for placing children and children's parents into foster care, which, most recently, has cost the state between $19 and $24 million per year since 2013. The rest of the $5 million
