FIFA 22 introduces the ability to create your own Be A Pro micro-kit, complete with personalised name, kit and player faces. This micro-kit can be used in Custom Matches during My Player Career to create a squad of your own, or included in the Community Goals feature. FIFA 22 introduces the ability to customize your pitch and stadium in the stadium builder, giving you the ability to create your own Ultimate Team stadium. Inspired by stadiums used in world-class competitions such as the FIFA Club World Cup, FIFA Confederations Cup and the FIFA U-20 World Cup, the stadium builder lets you create your own stadium with components specific to your team, including your player fans, advertising boards, sponsor boxes and more. FIFA 22 introduces 360° Player Control, allowing you to face your goalkeeper or target player, using the controls on the pitch. This is accomplished by using the left analog stick to control the player. During the match, the camera will pan to the left analog stick to keep the player in view, and the right analog stick will move the camera down to the centre of the pitch. FIFA 22 introduces the new radio system and highlights the most important information such as match minutes, opponent, play-by-play commentary and match rating. Players can also select a specific broadcaster to hear through the new radio system. Presents features a new attack model that emphasizes speed and quickness. Players are able to both create and create space, which naturally accelerates them in the direction of their run, providing great pace and a new off-ball movement and run-up that further accelerates them. Presents allows for more spacing between players, opening up the midfield. Space will open up between players and create a greater degree of freedom in the final third. The ball controller allows the player to more easily manage the ball when in tight spaces, and reduce distance when passing and receiving. The ball retains realistic behavior in tight spaces, which has been improved to be more realistic and easier to control. New animation and control over-the-ball physics, including slide tackles, increase player reaction and movement when blocking/sliding the ball in a more realistic manner. A more realistic acceleration and deceleration in the runs and passes that players make have been introduced. This allows the player better control in tight spaces and better pass decisions, reducing the frequency of fouls and uncoordinated passes.
