Q: Accessing existing related fields from related content in a Drupal 7 view I have a content type called Event with a field called Attendee_Name. This field is simple text. I created a view of all events and I am trying to include a link to the available attendees of the event. If the Event has fields for First_Name, Last_Name, etc. I can use these fields in the view to include links to their information. Is there any way to accomplish this? A: The way this is set up by default in Views, what you want to do is: Enable sorting for your view: Event Title > sort order Event Title > sorting options Event Title > sorting options Add sort criteria (in this order): Title > Last Name > First Name > (grayed out) Attendee In the exposed filter options for your view, expand the "Expose filter criteria" option, then click "Add filter criteria..." Choose from the options provided: Entity reference: Content has a field with label ("Field label"): Attendees Choose from the exposed filter options for the field you just created: Exposed formatter: Tags Create a Link (url) that points to the views you created for a particular event The above method works great in that it sets up the search for you. However, there are a couple caveats: It will only work on the one Event view, so you'd have to repeat this process for each event you want to include a list of attendees with links. This won't allow you to "drill down" to a particular attendee, they would only be shown in a single list. Depending on your needs, this might not be ideal. The alternative would be to create a View of individual attendees for each Event, based on a custom list of events, then adding that to the views you've already created. However, it's a bit more work to get it set up like that. So, the other option would be to switch the way you're displaying the events in the first place, to use a block, and then use the Fields module to display the fields you need. The Block module makes it super easy to create a block that displays a list of articles (or anything). You'll also need to go into the Fields settings to allow the Block to Mental Health Resource Center Mental Health Resource Center The Park Road Health Center is the major public mental health center in Guilford County providing mental health services and inpatient psychiatric treatment. The center was founded in 1915 by Dr. Nannie Stevenson, the first female doctor in North Carolina, who was a native of Guilford County. Over the years, the center has undergone many changes in structure and function. However, the mission of the center has remained the same, providing comprehensive, quality mental health and substance abuse services. Mental Health Resource Center Mental health professionals and substance abuse treatment counselors provide services in a warm, caring environment. The center offers a variety of treatment programs for children, adolescents and adults, including individual counseling, group counseling, and family counseling. Other services include psychological testing, hospitalization, crisis intervention, chemical dependency, sexual abuse treatment, and rehabilitation. The Center also serves as a referral and observation center for hospitals, other mental health centers, and the courts. Compassionate Connection Compassionate Connection(also referred to as Request Your Treatment(RHU) is a state-funded telehealth service available statewide to clients receiving Medicaid, with recent increases to those in rural North Carolina. The main focus of the service is to help individuals and families deal with the stress of unemployment, domestic violence or abuse, family illness or death, or a recent traumatic life experience. The service allows clients to connect from home using computers, landlines, or cell phones to have video or phone conversations with a registered Mental Health or Substance Abuse Case Manager. This service has been highly effective in enabling clients to receive needed services and supports during crises and makes it easier for clients to accept, schedule, and complete necessary treatment. Mental Health Resource Center, located in downtown Greensboro, provides services to all North Carolinians with mental health needs. We specialize in mental health services for children, adolescents, and adults. Our services include intensive case management, court-ordered treatment, crisis intervention, substance abuse services, counseling and psychotherapy, individual treatment, family counseling, and treatment of mental health illnesses. We are a state-certified substance abuse treatment facility. Our licensed clinicians use a team approach to address the mental health and substance abuse problems of people with co-occurring disorders.
