YAG, Yet Another Gameboard, is a 3D Virtual Tabletop (VTT) perfect to play online with your friends. Initially designed for Role Playing Games (RPG), it can be used for any game requiring maps, pawns, and dice. The game is easily able to generate dungeons and voxel terrains (both natural and procedural) using the easy to use YAG generator and can easily be customized using standard tools. Yag content is managed through DLCs. All DLCs are and will remain free. So how is it that your good self has been the better part of a day and a half without a reply? Damn this slow internet connection of mine! I can literally always tell when a fellow has not been in the modding community! Cause after how good you guys were to me in the previous gameboard, I trusted you were trustworthy in yours. Anywhoz, in the interest of not wasting my time, I decided to look around. So here is a preview of the features I am most interested in. Yeah those are pretty cool. 3D Virtual tables are the best thing ever. Only other thing I wanna try is darkmoon/lowwisp. The more cvar the better IMO. XD I think this is a game I would like to play with friends. You could build dungeons using scripts to be shared between all players. I would imagine that would get really old really quickly. If you need a "reward" for a bit of work done on the development of the game (im not interested in mods that are only purely for profit, everyone is doing that) I shall have to consider sending you a knife in exchange for your time, skills and thoughts. That is kind of just a small gift, I shall try and come up with something more unique! Holy cow so many ideas! I can't wait to dive into this. I too am a big fan of Dark Sun. Maybe this is something that the entire Dark Sun fanbase could get behind. Maybe it could be one of those reverse engineered entries or mod hybrid entries that 3D have been doing? If you need a "reward" for a bit of work done on the development of the game (im not interested in mods that are only purely for profit, everyone is doing that) I shall have to consider sending you a knife in exchange for your time, skills and thoughts. That is kind of just a small gift, I shall try and come

War-zone Simulator is a strategy based flight game and the sequel to War-zone Quake. Gameplay is fast paced but allows you to master the controls of a flying object in order to battle other flying objects in a wide range of game modes. It can be played in arcade mode for fast paced action with unlimited lives, or you can play in endless mode for an endless number of match ups. Game-mode is designed with strategy; taking strategic advantage over the other teams in your team. Individual games can be replayed again and again in single player mode. There are four modes of play. Capture The Point, Flag Races, Game Modes and Co-op. All game-modes and Flag races will allow you to compete in-game with up to 4 other team members, and in Capture the Point mode 2 teams compete to capture points spread throughout the map. Game mode will work in the same manner with 2 players against 2 players in a game. Game-mode is designed with strategy; taking strategic advantage over the other teams in your team. Game-modes include; Capture the point, Flag Races, SAVE THE BABIES and Web Spitters versus Larva Stealing Ants. There is a wide range of challenge and fun for players of any level. Capture The Point: One team will build a point in the map where the other team has to attack in order to gain points. Flag Races: One team will have a flag fly in the map while the other team will try to swat it away. Co-Op: One team of up to 8 players will battle it out with web spitting spiders and larva stealing ants to SAVE THE BABIES. Quick Start Guide: Click the Big Green Arrow to open the Quick Start Guide. This guide will help you get the most out of your flying experience with this simulator. The map is divided up into 8 different levels and each level has a control point to the left of your cockpit. Use the control points to power up your ship to increase your speed and other stats. Use the keyboard and mouse or a game-pad controller to fly the flying object. Press the spacebar when you want to jump and the arrow keys to gain altitude. Use the right mouse-button and the number keys to control your weapons. You can shoot a beam in any direction by using the control pad, the weapons power ups are as follows : F1+ = Fire 1 Beam F2+ = Fire 2 c9d1549cdd

NUX stands for "Nexon Ultimate Xperience", a term coined by the Nexon Game Team to describe the next generation of gaming. NUX picks up where 2005's NCS (Next-Generation Strategy) left off, combining traditional real time strategy with action-packed cinematic combat, fast-paced puzzle solving, and a unique fusion of gaming mechanics.

The Enemy: Silthax, a fiend from another dimension

The Pursuit: To find the sacred power crystals that lie hidden on the floating planet of Thal.

The Fight: To defeat the evil Silthax once and for all and save your home world! At the end of the universe lies a fabulous city filled with crystal power... It's time to exact revenge!

Colonel Keelan Anx is a mercenary from a faraway world, he was the last man to walk the shores of Garth, long ago. He has been hired by the Republic to reclaim that stolen homeland, hunt down those that would oppress his people, and do whatever it takes to free them. Colonel Keelan Anx is a professional soldier... and nothing can stop him! In charge of tactical support, Keelan is looking for a new mission to fulfill his dream of working for the good guys. Keelan Anx is a charismatic and capable soldier, a bounty hunter and all around good guy, you don't want to meet an enemy that he doesn't know how to kill. You play as the commander of a battleship in a procedurally generated, 3D action shooter game! Using an innovative, non-third-person "first-person with motion controls" perspective, you can move your ship, attack enemy ships and destroy the enemy fleet before they reach the home planet. Its fast-paced gameplay and unique ship controls come together to create a new kind of 3D action game. Cancel your orders! Trapped on the home planet of the enemy and surrounded by their fleet, the only hope for survival is to reach the safety of a nearby cruiser.

Key Features:

- A non-third-person perspective.
- A unique ship controls: - Turn your ship into a fast-paced katana.
- Equip numerous weapons to rain destruction down on the enemy from the sky.
- Perform devastating orbital strikes and deadly suicide runs on enemy ships. We are a team

Insane Cold: Back to the Ice Age is a 2007 direct-to-video, animated film. The title is a play on the "allegedly based on true events" disclaimer at the end of 2007's Ice Age: The Meltdown. A second installment of Ice Age, Ice Age: Dawn of the Dinosaurs, was released in 2009. Plot Holly Pincot is an unhappy woman who works as a janitor at a museum and has a husband and two kids living back home in Antarctica. While clearing away dirty icicles from her building, Holly finds the shattered horn from a present-day narwhal mistakenly delivered to her, making her think she has spent the Christmas season with Santa Claus. Every year, the family receives a piano under the tree as a gift. During a family vacation in Costa Rica, she discovers that the piano under her tree is the very same instrument that the Narwhal brought her all those years ago. Meanwhile, her former colleagues archaeologist/zoologist (and ex-lover) Chad Neeson and his wife, Paula Neeson, who are visiting Costa Rica for the holidays, continue to research an urn found six months earlier. Chad discovers accidentally opening the urn without a protective cover, and a strange pale blue light begins to emanate out of it. Paula becomes angry at Chad for opening the urn, and becomes jealous that he is wooing another woman, named "Ramona." Meanwhile, back at the building, Holly is drinking tea with a former colleague named Finney O'Mahoney, who is also a janitor and will be her partner on a job. Her mobile phone rings, and an unknown female voice answers it. Holly answers, but is met with an incoherent ranting and confusing noise. Holly then hears a loud music with the song "Stir It Up" by the group Baha Men playing, which seems to be coming from within her building. She then hears a voice of her four-year-old daughter Kiara, who tells her to open up her Christmas present before the poofs show up. Holly sends Finney, who leaves believing he was called by a family emergency, on a snowmobile to check on the situation. Holly soon hears a chorus of female voices, and she hears Kiara singing with her present being opened. Holly is then followed into a corridor by five white-skinned eerie creatures. They take Holly into her home and she meets the family. Holly
