Metabolic changes in the lung may affect the oxygenation of the blood. The pharmacokinetics of oxyhemoglobin (HbO<sub>2</sub>) and total hemoglobin (Hb) were measured in normal and in hyperoxic rats. In the normal rat, the clearance rate of HbO<sub>2</sub> and Hb was 16.9 ± 3.4 and 9.8 ± 3.3 ml.g<sup>-1</sup>.min<sup>-1</sup>, respectively. Following exposure to hyperoxic gas (85% O<sub>2</sub>), the clearance rates of HbO<sub>2</sub> and Hb decreased to 13.4 ± 3.4 and 7.8 ± 3.7 ml.g<sup>-1</sup>.min<sup>-1</sup>, respectively, indicating an increase in the utilization of Hb for tissue oxygenation. After i.v. infusion of labeled hemoglobin, the reduction in concentration of the label was significantly slower in the hyperoxic rat than in the normal rat. The amount of label left in the lung (elimination rate) was significantly slower in the hyperoxic rat. This was due to a slower pulmonary uptake rate of the label. Q: Sharing session between 2 web servers in asp.net c# I have 2 web servers and they are on the same machine. We access the web pages using a clients browser. How can I create the same session between both servers and they can both retrieve session data from it? Will I need to store sessions in databases? Is there any way to do this without the need to make any database changes. Can I use a centralized session state? Is it best practice to use the same session between all servers? A: 1) You would need to use some sort of clustered server or sql server for this. 2) You could store it in a session variable, in the end though you are just storing a list of user ids in a variable, is this what you are asking? 3) It's best practice to use the same session between all servers 4) In regards to your comment, I would assume you are using windows authentication in which case session is not stored in sql server, it's in the machine that is executing your code.
