In the old time there was no any written language, but we know that some of the languages were spoken for the communication. So, there were some users, who could understand, and could write the same language, it was the educated person, this is the speaker and the writer only. Because, the writer could take some time to write the whole thing. So, it is not possible for them to write the whole thing, they just write the content for the speaker to deliver it. So, in this way, both the people could understand, but if we compare the writer and the speaker, when the writer writes it, he knows that what is he writing for the speaker to read. In the old time, the architecture of the house was very different. It was not as it is at present. First, the house was not made of bricks, but it was made of timber. Then, the roof was made of timber, the walls were made of bricks. Then, in the new time, the house is made of bricks. And the roof is made of timber. In the old time, the fireplace was there, in the old time we used the fireplace to cook our food. In the old time, we ate whatever we got ready for our food. We didn
