The next example of sloppy scholarship is on page 23. Mr Bushby describes the events of the life of the Apostle of the Gentiles, Paul, without mentioning the fact that the Apostle Paul was caught in an attempt to desecrate the temple of Artemis at Ephesus. The Apostle Paul, in his attempt to proselytize the Jews, became a criminal and they arrested him, but he was allowed to make his escape because the Roman military band played a military fanfare, the "Victory Chant," as a diversion, in order to capture Paul. Paul's escape of the Roman military band playing "Victory Chant" is a well known story, and has been recorded throughout history. The composer of that song is unknown and unrecorded. Mr Bushby somehow, in his ignorance of the reality of that event, does not recognize this story as being an event that actually happened. When I was a child, I was taught that the only Roman soldiers who ever played “Victory Chant” were stationed in the outskirts of Rome because the Roman military band was called “The Triumphal March” with “the Charioteers” playing their military fanfare at military parades, and only when the Soldiers in the back of the chariots were about to throw their javelins, would the “Triumphal March” begin. They would play “Triumphal March” until all the javelins had been thrown and all the chariots were going back to Rome. The “Victory Chant” was meant to kill the fear of the Romans and to help Roman soldiers keep their courage up. The story is recorded in many places. Roman soldiers never played the “Triumphal March” or any other fanfare to kill the courage of their enemy. Usually soldiers would play “Dulce et Decorum est” (“Sweet and necessary is it to die for one’s country”) to help their own courage up. Roman military bands never played

“The Apostle’s Conversion,” which is because the story of the Apostle Paul has no place in the life and teachings of the Apostle Paul. Mr Bushby owes his friend, Rabbi Yehuda Levin, for telling him about the Apostle Paul’s rejection of homosexuality while he was on a trip to Italy.

Tony Bushby The Bible Fraud.pdf

The Bible Fraud starts on page 4 with this about Henry VIII, which is the first item we will review: Heydon, a Lutheran minister, was King Henrys first minister in England. If this title is meant to entice, I cant deny the fact that it works. Mr Bushby is providing a real life case, of an alternative, much more entertaining, story. A review which shows a hint of objectivity, is generally a good sign. If the author is honest he will use his education as a framework for his work. The Bible Fraud was published in 2001, but was written in 1995, though the first edition was not published until 1997. It is also a work of fiction. It is written in the third person. In more recent editions of the book, Mr Bushby uses the first person. For example, the author uses the first person when describing himself: I am a senior lecturer in science at a university, and I train my students In 2001, Mr Bushby mentioned that Albert Einstein did not approve of the theory of relativity, because the words theoretical was in it. He specifically states on page 201 that Einstein was like this: Einstein rejected it as a theoretical and incomplete picture of the cosmos, noting that he had not seen any sign of gravity beyond the earth. Mr Bushby continued on the same page by describing Einstein as a very modest man. He then goes on to say that Einstein refused to accept the reality that there was a war in the Middle East, when referring to World War I. But, Mr Bushby makes no mention of Einsteins mistrust for much of what we see as day-to-day facts. Another thing is that Einstein, as the final sentence of the book states, was supposedly the best of all the scientists, but he was embarrassed to be viewed as one of them. 5ec8ef588b
