Dow Jones Newswires' David Wharton, who was at the show, spotted Apple's new handset and even took a picture of it from the show floor. The image shows the back of the new model, which is similar to the iPhone 3GS. Wharton said the device looked very similar to the previous model, except for the new and improved antennae technology. Apple is expected to give the iPhone 4 official unveiling on October 4 and a new Apple-branded television set on October 10, according to CNet. The iPhone 4 will be available in the U.S. in the third quarter, according to the report. The new iPhone 4 will also be available in China, the UK, France, Germany, Japan, Sweden, Switzerland and other countries in the coming months. The smartphone will feature a 4-inch screen, a faster A5 processor, and improved 8-megapixel camera, the report stated.Irish Republicans to British PM Theresa May: 'We are not your enemy' LONDON (AP) — The Irish Republican Army is urging British Prime Minister Theresa May to rethink her decision to shut out Sinn Fein from talks about restoring power-sharing government in Northern Ireland. In a letter to the British leader, the political wing of the IRA's armed
