The branch office for Corporate and Government, particularly the automotive and telecommunication industries, as well as service centers in the field of mechanics and electronics and other utilities, are the most common customers. Festo Didactic AS has been awarded the status of a market leader in its field. The electronic engineering shop is also a maintenance center for Festo products. If you are using this new version, then you will most certainly benefit from the optimizations and additional features. The new features and optimizations enable you to perform many things that were impossible before. If you are using a machine with a physical keyboard and mouse, you can now actually use the mouse to select objects to move and change them. The graphic engine is fully hardware accelerated, so it is twice as fast as before. If you are using a touchscreen monitor, the experience will be better than with the old version. I'll leave it up to you as to whether that's a good thing or not. The graphics have undergone a total overhaul. New modules (like the tractor) look amazing. The landscape has been changed to a more realistic appearance and is now animated. When the wheels of the tractor roll, they really roll. The special effect for objects on the ground has also been improved.
