For a detailed look at how it works, see the "Understanding Photoshop's Building Blocks" sidebar in this chapter. Image editing programs Many different programs can be used for image editing, including the following: GIMP: GIMP (pronounced "Gimp") is the free image-editing program available for Linux/Unix, Mac OS X, and Windows. (And, yes, it's actually pronounced Gim-p.) It's a great little image-editing program. See the nearby sidebar for more on this program. Photoshop: Photoshop is the industry standard tool in a lot of ways. It's the best all-around image-editing program, and you can use it to create and edit all sorts of images. Decreased expression of the interleukin (IL)-4 receptor in inflammatory airway disease. Interleukin (IL)-4 and IL-13 are able to play a crucial role in the pathogenesis of asthma and allergic rhinitis. Binding of these cytokines to their specific receptors induces a signal transduction pathway leading to the activation of transcription factors, activation of ornithine decarboxylase and the production of late-phase mediators, such as chemokines and adhesion molecules. In asthma, IL-4R expression has been found to be reduced in biopsy specimens from atopic bronchial mucosa. In the present study, we analyzed the expression of the IL-4R in different airway cell types in vivo, as well as in vitro. In vitro expression of the IL-4R was assessed by immunocytochemistry on tissue sections from bronchial biopsies, and by flow cytometry on peripheral blood mononuclear cells. In comparison with normal subjects, a significantly decreased expression of the IL-4R was observed in bronchial biopsies from asthmatic patients (n = 10), whereas no differences were found in lymphocytes from asthmatic patients. By contrast, no significant difference was found between IL-4R expression on cells from normal subjects and patients with allergic rhinitis and/or chronic sinusitis. A similar study performed on IL-13R showed a significantly decreased expression of the receptor in biopsies from asthmatic patients, which might be a consequence of the down-regulation of the IL-13R gene that occurs after IL-4 induction. In contrast, in vitro analysis revealed no differences in IL-13R expression on peripheral blood mononuclear cells. Our results show that IL-4R expression is decreased in inflammatory airway disease, probably secondary to its regulation by this cytokine. Academics at Yale University have identified a specific type of white blood cell that has not previously been shown to play a critical role in the human immune system. They suggest that the relatively new knowledge could be put to use in the development of better treatments for people with HIV infection, who suffer from chronic immune deficiency. The study, published in the journal Immunity, was led by molecular biologist Anne Ridley of Yale University's School of Medicine. Ridley identified a type of white blood cell called a regulatory T cell (Treg) as the key to HIV's stealthiness. HIV hides inside
