the openvpn community project team is proud to release openvpn 2.6.5. this release includes a number of fixes and small improvements. windows installers include updated openssl and new openvpn gui.

installers are built using the new nsis 3.0 installer framework. the new nsis installer framework has been tested on windows 7 and windows 10, and builds should work fine on windows 8 and earlier. the new nsis installer framework is currently incompatible with all older windows versions, though. openvpn gui no longer builds a.exe installer on linux. we are instead using a python script to provide a gui. openvpn gui can now load profiles from urls. the openvpn community project team is proud to release openvpn 2.6.7. this release includes a number of fixes and small improvements. the most important fixes are: allowed openvpn gui on windows to load profiles from urls. this has been possible since 2.6 (as tested with 2.7). fixed incorrect version number when talking to windows client, which was visible in windows ui. added windows-specific detection for windows server 2019. fixed windows installers to allow static builds. added windows installer for openvpn gui. this is the only way to get openvpn gui on windows and linux installs.

openvpn gui was previously only available from the.exe installer. other fixes and improvements. the openvpn community project team is proud to release openvpn 2.7.1. this release includes a number of fixes and small improvements. openvpn gui for windows now displays the correct version number in the dialog box. windows gui now works correctly when openvpn gui is started with --vpn-extra-args. windows gui has been rebuilt using the new nsis 3.0 installer framework. this means that all old windows versions need to be upgraded to nsis 3.0, which is currently incompatible with all older windows versions. this also means that the old windows openvpn gui is no longer supported. openvpn gui will now automatically load profiles from urls when available. 5ec8ef588b
