Windows CE 3.0.1-based Windows Mobile 6.1 Â .Owing to an increasing consumption of beer, improvement in taste and preservation stability have been demanded with respect to lagers. In view of such demand, it has been known to add a flavor imparting agent to lager beer. As the flavoring agent which is one of the factors for imparting the flavor, there have been known, as a lager beer flavor imparting agent, carboxylic acid having 6 carbon atoms to which a conjugated system is formed and a difference in free electric charge between the carboxylic acid and its conjugate is large in a pH region to be used for the lager beer fermentation (e.g. lactic acid, tartaric acid, glycolic acid and the like). However, these carboxylic acid impart the flavor to the beer. Therefore, even if they have been contained in the beer in large amounts, the flavor is not strong at the time when the beer is drunk, and a deteriorated flavor of an after taste is produced with the passage of time. In order to eliminate such a problem, it has been proposed to utilize a sulfur-containing 1,2,3-thiadiazole compound (which will be referred to as a 2-thiadiazole compound hereinafter) for imparting the flavor to the beer (e.g. JP-A-05-203526, JP-A-10-122914).Now that we're nearly a month into the offseason, the rumors are beginning to come in thick and fast. About every other day or so a new report surfaces and we're
